Response to Amendment

1. The amendment filed 6/26/2006 has been received and made of record.
2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 3-5, 7-18, 20-24, 26-31 and 33-42 have been fully considered but are not persuasive for the following reason.
3. Applicant alleges Neither Schneider nor Miller teaches or suggests, alone or in combination "receiving from a first entity a request to add the first entity to a first group, accessing an indication of a first policy from a set of policies for changing static membership of said first group and adding said first entity to said first group as a static member based on said first policy".

Examiner respectfully disagrees because Schneider receiving a request to add a first entity to a first group (see fig. 9 and col. 23, lines 27-53), accessing an indication of a first policy from a set of policies for changing static membership of said first group (see fig. 11 and col. 24, lines 32-54) and adding said first entity to said first group as a static member based on said first policy (see col. 24, lines 32-54). Schneider is silent regarding: wherein a request is received from the first entity to add the entity into a group. Miller, in analogous art discloses a system for handling requests to organize group membership, wherein a request is received from the first entity (i.e., group or subgroup or new members) to add the first entity into a group (see fig. 3 and col. 8, lines 1-50). Thus allowing to add an first entity into a group when a request is received from the first entity in order to provide coherent view of the different group members.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1, 3-5, 7-18, 20-24, 26-31 and 33-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schneider et al., U.S. Patent No. 6, 408,336[hereinafter Schneider] in view of Miller et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,839,752[hereinafter Miller]

As per claim 1, Schneider discloses a method for modifying group membership, comprising the steps of:

receiving a request to add a first entity to a first group (see fig. 9 and col. 23, lines 27-53);

accessing an indication of a first policy from a set of policies for changing static membership of said first group (see fig. 11 and col. 24, lines 32-54); and adding said first entity to said first group as a static member based on said first policy (see col. 24, lines 32-54).

Schneider is silent regarding: wherein a request is received from the first entity to add the entity into a group.

Miller, in analogous art discloses a system for handling requests to organize group membership, wherein a request is received from the first entity (i.e., group or subgroup or new members) to add the first entity into a group (see fig. 3 and col. 8, lines 1-50).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention presented with the teachings of Schneider to utilize the group membership management mechanism such as allowing to add an first entity into a group when a request is received from the first entity in order to provide coherent view of the different group members.

As per claim 3, Schneider discloses a method according to claim 1, wherein: said indication is stored in an attribute of an identity profile for said first group(see col. 7, lines 12-31).

As per claim 4, Schneider discloses a method according to claim 1, wherein: said set of policies includes an open policy, an open with filter policy, a controlled through workflow policy, and a closed policy (see col. 9, lines 32-52).

As per claims 5, and 7-10 Schneider discloses a method according to claim 4, wherein: said identity profile for said first group includes a filter attribute, said filter attribute stores a filter that is used with said open with filter policy to determine whether said first entity may be added to said first group (see fig. 3 and col. 9, lines 32-52).

As per As per claims 11-17 Schneider discloses a method according to claim 1, wherein: said indication is stored in an attribute of an identity profile for said first group; said identity profile for said first group includes an attribute that stores an indication of whether to send a message upon adding said first entity to said first group; and said identity profile for said first group includes an attribute that stores said message (see fig. 3 col. 9, lines 32-52 and 12, lines 28-39).

As per claims 18, 20-24, 26-31 and 33-42, the claims include features discussed above with respect to claims 1-17, thus claims 18, 20-24, 26-31 and 33-42, are rejected same rational as claims 1-17.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
